Pigeon Racing

Members of the Bristol, Terryville, Thomaston Pigeon club entered the Federation Great Eastern Races, held on Oct. 29, from Charlottesville, Va., a distance of 400 miles.

T. Genova, of Waterbury, had the only pigeon making home the same day. The birds were liberated at 8 a. m. and the Genova pigeon was clocked at 5:27 p. m., making an average speed of 1173.87 yards per min.

Weather conditions at liberating point, clear southwest wind; at home, cloudy and northwest wind.

Other members who clocked birds the second day and reported were as follows:

G. St. Amand, Waterbury, 851.03 per min.

W. Hendau, Bristol, 793.03 yds. per min.

L. Lebedenski, Southington, 773.44 yds. per min.

C. Fowler, Torrington, 741.13 yds. per min.

F. Hamor, Torrington, 701.15 yds. per min.

A. Ross, Bristol; F. Jene, Bristol; W. Rousseau, Bristol—no report.

Next week's race is a special 200 mile race from Wilmington, Del., to bird limit. Members will report at the Thomaston railway station each Friday evening, Oct. 5th, at 8 p. m. to ship the birds.

SHIRLEY TEMPLE In Hollywood

Distributed by Paramount Pictures, Inc.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 1—I've been amazed by the number of letters received from readers who "regret" that Shirley Temple married "too young." "At 17," they argue, "how can any girl really know her own mind?"

I'm no Dorothy Dix, but I can speak with authority about the "mind" of Shirley Temple. I've known her since she was a four-year-old.

Shirley, mentally, is far more mature than ninety percent of the girls who wait until they are 25 to wed. It's inevitable that she should be, for she has spent hours with adults for every minute that she has mingled with kids her own age. Since she was a tiny tot, she's had the majority of her schooling on a movie set, sans playmates. Instead of hearing other children chatter about the interests of childhood, she's been constantly exposed to the conversations of adults.

Being one of the screen's greatest stars, and one of Hollywood's biggest money makers, she has been "too important" to be treated like a normal child. For years, she has had a voice in the shaping of her picture. She's learned to weigh both sides of every question.

I'm willing to post a wager that this very adult 17-year-old will make a success of her marriage. One thing, at least, is sure; she can't do worse than the majority of older actresses who've done in their matrimonial ventures.

IDOL CHATTER: If Claudette Colbert has aged in the past ten years, it must be inwardly. Peas-in-a-pod: Jeff Donnell today, and Colleen Moore, 30 years ago, when Andy Devine gains a few more pounds. Universal can bill him as a double feature. . . . Random thought: Plenty of ship captains have bigger boats than Humphrey Bogart's yacht—but none has a more exciting "crew." . . . What price fame when half of her fans still pronounce Bette Davis' name as if it were spelled B-e-t? . . . Nervous tic: To stamp under the candy addicts who rustle paper bags during movie programs and sell their candy. . . . To strike up a conversation with Ida Lupino, just tell her you're interested in salt water fishing.

Young Mark Stevens, who soared overnight from obscurity to success as Joan Fontaine's co-star in

"All Brides Are Beautiful," is encountering an embarrassing incident on every "Cinderella" in screen history. Half the big shots in Hollywood are claiming the distinction of discovering him. Recently, I asked him which claim he recognizes. Stevens smiled ruefully. "I'm going to be a diplomat before I answer," he said. "But I would like to make one observation. When you're up against it in Hollywood and need help, it's usually the little people, not the big ones, who come to your aid. If it hadn't been for the little people, I couldn't have held out long enough to be any big-shot's discovery."

During the past year or two, Las Vegas, Nevada, where gambling is legal, has become a Mecca for Hollywood's playboys and playgirls. Thousands of movie dollars change hands every night over the gaming tables in the ritzy casinos, and every Las Vegas "palace of chance"—with one possible exception—is coming money. I'm not sure about the one exception, the Las Vegas Players Club. Jack Oakie, just back from a vacation in the Nevada resort, tells me that the owner of that establishment is so ardent a movie fan that she refuses to cash any check for less than $25 given her by a well known actor or actress. She frames them for wall decorations?

Since 1935, when he inadvertently uttered a "woo-woo" and scored a major laugh, Hugh Herbert, by studio mandate, has been forced to be on hand for every picture. To say that he's unhappy about it would be a masterpiece of understatement. Three days ago, at Columbia, I encountered him in one of the studio hallways and found him bubbling over with joy. "I just did my last scene for 'One Way To Love,'" he confided. "They forgot to put in a single 'woo-woo' for me." Yesterday, I met him again and he gleefully pointed out the "call sheet" for the day. The No. 1 notice was an order for Herbert to be on hand for a retake. He was to re-enact his big comedy scene—with "woo-woos!"

Bob Hope says it's amazing how many Hollywood girls believe that by bleaching their hair they can keep their ages dark.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Expect to have several teeth extracted and would like to have a plate made ready to wear immediately. Please give me the names of a few dentists in this city who can do such work. (C. J. R.)

Answer—Any good dentist will do so. Sorry but I cannot keep data on dentists.

Fear of Insanity

How can one overcome fear of insanity. Mental excitement and fears played up in psychology class caused this idea to come to my mind and I cannot seem to shake it. (C. R. A.)

Answer—Sit down and write out your whole story in your own words. If you can confide in me, and send it to me with stamped envelope bearing your address, I'll be happy to advise you to the best of my ability.

Dry Skin and Night Blindness

Have been taking 75,000 units of natural vitamin A three minutes or four for about a month. They have brought great benefit for my dry, irritated skin and night blindness. Would it be safe to continue this much longer? (F. R.)

Answer—One capsule (25,000 units) daily should be enough to maintain the improvement for the next month or two, and after that one such capsule every alternate day or say three a week may be enough. But no matter how much you take it can scarcely do any harm, in my judgment. Read the chapter on rough skin in booklet "Save Your Skin"—for copy send twenty-five cents and stamped envelope bearing your address.

Leg Cramps

Daughter, 24, and I, 53, have recently had painful cramps in calf and toes, particularly at night, waking us from sleep. (Mrs. J. M. E.)

Answer—Frequent cause is adult tetany. Send S.A.S. for pamphlet.

Acne

Can you give me a remedy for a red nose? Mine is always flaming. I am a teetotaler. (A. M.)

Answer—So are most persons with red nose. Send stamped envelope bearing your address, for pamphlet on "Acne." That is the medical term for blackheads and pimples. Acne rosacea is "rum blossom." You must ask for this in writing—a clipping will not do. The reason why I object to clippings of my own column is simple: It slows up service. I like to keep not more than ten or fifteen thousand letters behindhand.

Renew Old Shoes With Jelly Bath

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Those light-colored fabric play shoes which quickly become so soiled they look as though they ought to be buried, needn't be, you know. The way to clean 'em up, and jack up your rating as a better-groomed gal, is to scrub with soap jelly.

To make jelly, round up all of the odds and ends of soap scraps which might otherwise be wasted and to these—dumped into a pan—add a little water. Heat until jelled, and set aside to cool.

Using a stiff brush, coat bristles sparingly with jelly, and you can scrub the dirty uppers without getting fabric too soaked. To rinse, use your brush again—this time freed of soap and shaken from clear water. Now, put your play shoes out to dry. When you slip back into them, see if they aren't something which you feel more proud to exhibit.

UNDULANT FEVER

Undulant fever, Malta fever, Mediterranean fever, goat fever, canine fever, abortion of cattle, Brucellosis, Bang's disease, Texas fever are different names for what is probably the same infection, with a germ called Brucella melitensis.

Undulant means the fever occurs in a succession of feverish relapse with intervals of what appears to be convalescence, and so the course of illness is months or even years.

No reliable diagnostic test has been developed, although cultures from blood and other fluids, skin tests and agglutination tests similar to the Widal test for typhoid, may give some help in diagnosis. In many cases of what eventually proves to be undulant fever, the best of physicians may feel strongly of the opinion that the illness is bacterial endocarditis, rheumatic fever, malaria, chronic bronchitis, pyelitis, even tuberculosis.

Workers in meat packing plants, particularly those handling hogs or pork products; persons handling hides of cats, dogs, goats; persons caring for such animals contract undulant fever in many instances. The possibility of such infection, as well as infection by the agency of flies carrying the germs of the disease, must be kept constantly in mind. It would be foolish to assume that the universal cooking, boiling, scalding, sterilization or pasteurization of milk can protect the public from the risk of contracting undulant fever. Certainly any nondescript milk or milk you buy casually without previous knowledge or experience of its purity, should be so sterilized or rendered safe for consumption. That is, boil for five minutes, or scald it (bring to a boil for one minute or pasteurize it (heat it to 150 degrees F. for half an hour). This will make any milk safe for infant, invalid, or any one.

Children, who are the main milk drinkers, seldom have undulant fever. Most of the cases of undulant fever occur in the West-North-Central states, especially Iowa, where hogs are raised on the largest scale and the porcine strain of the Brucella is scarier than any. Adult males have a high incidence of undulant fever—and they are the handlers of animals and carcasses.

WE, THE WOMEN

Who Doesn't Have A "Dual Personality"?

BY RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer

In a recent divorce case that received considerable newspaper publicity the wife charged that in her opinion her husband had a "dual personality."

Don't most husbands give that impression?

It is a clothes girl who encourages his wife to buy a quiet, sensible and practically guarantee never to turn a masculine head.

But, "Not bad; not bad at all," he says when a girl in an eye-catching little number walks by.

Good old Bob thinks woman's place is in the home. At least that is what he tells his wife. He also says he doesn't know what he would do without his gem of a stenographer—who just happens to have beauty as well as brains.

Charlie puts up a good line about how he is going to miss the little woman when he goes to a convention in a far-away city. But he never misses one—and never has had the happy thought that he might take the little woman along.

I was in Atlantic City recently completing arrangements for the fall session of the 1945 National championships to be held at the Hotel Chelsea. While there, I dropped in at Mrs. Helene Kelly's duplex game and was knitting Alvin Goodman's Philadelphia when today's hand came up. It demonstrates a point I have often mentioned—when your opponents enter a bad contract, be happy about it. Don't let a foolish double jeopardize your chance to defeat it.

Goodman ruffed the third heart, led the six spades, and won in dummy with the queen. On the third hand, West led his line of diamonds. Goodman cashed the ace and king of clubs and led a small spade from dummy. West had to split his honors, and put on the ten. The ace of diamonds was cashed and, when West's queen fell, Goodman cashed his queen and jack of clubs, discarding two diamonds from dummy. A small diamond was played to dummy's king. West was forced to trump and then had to lead from the jack-seven of spades into the queen eight. Without the double, Goodman might easily have made a mistake on the hand.

Mrs. C. Eastman, who has died at Biddeford, England, aged 101, saw Crimean troops welcomed back to London.
